SCROFULA

Humors,

I do not believe that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has an equal as a remedy for Scrofulous Humors. It is pleasant to take, gives strength and vigor to the body, and produces a more permanent, lasting, result than any medicine I ever used.—E. Haines, No. Lindale, O.

Erysipelas,

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease.—W. F. Fowler, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Canker, and

For forty years I have suffered with Erysipelas. I have tried all sorts of remedies for my complaint, but found no relief until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. After taking ten bottles of this medicine I am completely cured.—Mary C. Amesbury, Rockport, Me.

Catarrh,

I have suffered, for years, from Catarrh, which was so severe that it destroyed my appetite and weakened my system. After trying other remedies and getting no relief, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, in a few months, was cured.—Susan L. Cook, 900 Albany st., Boston Highlands, Mass.

Can be cured by purifying the blood with

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is superior to any blood purifier that I have ever tried. I have taken it for Scrofula, Canker, and Salt Rheum, and received much benefit from it. It is good, also, for a weak stomach.—Millie June Peirce, South Bradford, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

WIZARD OIL FOR PAIN

Cures Neuralgia, Toothache, Headache, Catarrh, Croup, Sore Throat, RHEUMATISM, Lame Back, Stiff Joints, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Wounds, Old Sores and All Aches and Pains.

We have many testimonials received by us more than prove all we claim for this valuable remedy. It not only relieves the most severe pains, but It Cures You. That's the Idea!

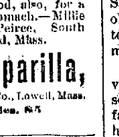
Sold by Druggists, 50 cts. Send Book mailed free Address WIZARD OIL COMPANY CHICAGO

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. The Original LITTLE LIVER PELLETS. SIZE OF PELLETS

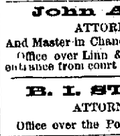
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. ALWAYS ASK FOR DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS, OR LITTLE SUGAR-COATED PILLS.

Being entirely vegetable, they operate without disturbance to the system, diet, or occupation. Put up in glass vials, hermetically sealed. Always fresh and reliable. As a laxative, alterative, or purgative these little Pellets give the most perfect satisfaction.

SICK HEADACHE,



Bilious Headache, Dizziness, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the stomach and bowels, are promptly relieved and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets. In explanation of the remedial power of these Pellets over so great a variety of diseases, it may truthfully be said that their action upon the system is universal, not a gland or tissue escaping their sanative influence. Sold by druggists, 25 cents a vial. Manufactured at the Chemical Laboratory of WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.



$500 REWARD

is offered by the manufacturers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for a case of Chronic Nasal Catarrh which they cannot cure.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.—Dull, heavy headache, obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges falling from the head into the throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; the eyes are weak, watery, and inflamed; there is ringing in the ears, deafness, hacking or coughing to clear the throat, expectoration of offensive matter, together with scabs from ulcers; the voice is changed and has a nasal twang; the breath is offensive; smell and taste are impaired; there is a sensation of dizziness, with mental depression, a hacking cough and general debility. Only a few of the above-named symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. Thousands of cases annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, result in consumption, and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive and dangerous, or less understood by physicians.

By its mild, soothing, and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases of Catarrh, "cold in the head," Coryza, and Catarrhal Headache.

Sold by druggists everywhere; 50 cents.

"Untold Agony from Catarrh."

Prof. W. HAUSNER, the famous mesmerist, of Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "Some ten years ago I suffered untold agony from chronic nasal catarrh. My family physician gave me up as incurable, and said I must die. My case was such a bad one, that every day, towards sunset, my voice would become so hoarse I could barely speak above a whisper. In the morning my coughing and clearing of my throat would almost strangle me. By the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, in three months, I was a well man, and the cure has been permanent."

"Constantly Hawking and Spitting."

THOMAS J. RUSHING, Esq., 202 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh for three years. At times I could hardly breathe, and was constantly hawking and spitting, and for the last eight months could not speak above a whisper. I tried many remedies, could be cure me. Luckily, I was advised to try Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and I am now a well man. I believe it to be the only sure remedy for catarrh now manufactured, and one has only to give it a fair trial to experience astounding results and a permanent cure."

Three Bottles Cure Catarrh.

Mr. ROBBINS, Runnion P. O., Columbia Co., Pa., writes: "My daughter had catarrh when five years old, very badly. I saw Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy advertised, and procured a bottle for her, and soon saw that it helped her. Three bottles effected a permanent cure. She is now eighteen years old and sound and healthy."

—For the benefit of those who do not know the meaning of a sneeze the following is quoted from a pamphlet recently issued by a German scientist. He says a sneeze is but "an affection of the respiratory nervous center, the afferent impulse of which is conveyed by the trigeminal nerve fibers.

—Two bells cast in 1775 at Messilla, Mexico, for the Catholic Church, are to go to Milwaukee to be smelted. It is believed there is at least one thousand dollars in precious metals which became fused in when the laborers at the original casting dropped jewelry into the molten mass to propitiate patron saints.

—Achieving a Reputation.—Husband—"Young Milliken seems to have made quite a name for himself." Wife—"You surprise me. I never thought that he would amount to any thing." Husband—"Oh, yes, he can hold an eyeglass on his eye longer than any member of the club."—Drake's Travelers' Magazine.

—Last Monday, while out fishing, T. R. Hair, of Tampa, Fla., caught a large catfish. He held it up near his right breast to break its back, when the fish gave a sudden jump and finned him right over his heart, the fin entering about three-quarters of an inch and breaking off even with the flesh. Mr. Hair took out his pocket-knife and cut the fin out, and at last accounts was doing well.

—Mrs. George H. Walsh, of Grand Forks, D. T., wife of Hon. George H. Walsh, the well-known politician, in her husband's absence from home this season has run the farm, hired all the help, put in and harvested eight hundred acres of grain of splendid yield, has paid the entire expense of the work, including seed, etc., from the proceeds of the sale of chickens, eggs, butter and vegetables from the farm.

—A certain professional man in Orlando, Fla., has a scheme which might be adopted by every one who pays his street tax. When a collector called on him yesterday with a bill he was requested to stand still a moment, and in the meantime an assistant of the aforesaid p. m. had succeeded in taking a photograph of the pair in the act of paying the bill and giving a receipt. The scheme works to perfection and he is never troubled a second time.

—S. V. French, the New York City politician, made a queer catch in Montauk bay the other day. What he hauled up was a long black fish that weighed over four pounds. The peculiarity about it was that its head was flat and corrugated like the sole of a tennis shoe. It proved to be a specimen of the "remora." By means of this flat head it dabs itself against the side of a shark or other large fish and sticks there, and thus makes its voyages into the deep waters.

A Good Deal in a Name.

"I want to get a few volumes of poetry," he said to the dealer.

"Yes, sir. We have complete sets of Browning, Shelly, Shakespeare, Schiller, Swinburne——"

"What's that—Swineburne?"

"Yes, sir."

DAILY REPUBLICAN.

B. K. HAMSHER. | J. R. MOSSER.

HAMSHER & MOSSER, Prop't'rs

DECATUR, ILLINOIS.

WEDNESDAY EVE., OCT. 2, 1887.

CLEVELAND had considerable of a reception down South, but that accorded to Jeff Davis yesterday was a cyclone compared with it.

THE Anarchists of Chicago, that is, the ones who are still out of jail, have nominated Capt. W. P. Black for Judge of the Superior Court.

A YOUNG man in St. Louis said: "Cleveland is the only Democratic President I ever saw, and," after a pause, he added, probably ever will see."

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has designated Thursday, Nov. 24th, as Thanksgiving Day. On that day the people can assemble at their usual places of worship and devoutly thank the Giver of all Good that things are no worse than they are.

HENRY WATTERSON, speaking of Democratic misrepresentation of one of Pres Grant's recent speeches says: "A manlier or more modest gentleman than Col. Grant does not live, and no party capital is to be made by subjecting him to such misrepresentations."

THIS is a great country. A San Francisco paper says: It is snowing in New York. In California the dates are just ripening, strawberries are abundant, raspberries are in their prime, and the air is like that of an Eastern Spring.

TO-MORROW (Thursday) is the time set by the United States Supreme Court for hearing arguments from both sides on the application for a writ of error in the Anarchist cases. It is the general impression among good lawyers who are not paid $250 a day that the writ will be refused.

"REFORM" democratic candidates for state offices were elected in Rhode Island at the last election. When they got into office they appointed as employes every democratic gang spoilsman in the state. The Rhode Islanders have concluded that they will trust the republicans hereafter.

MINNEAPOLIS Tribune: It is about time Ignatius Donnelly sent out some challenges. Some mortal enemy of his is circulating the story to the effect that the "Sage of Nininger" is engaged on a cipher showing that Jefferson Davis, instead of Thomas Jefferson, was the author of the Declaration of Independence. Only blood can wipe out such a vile insult. Ignatius, shoot him on the spot.

GEN. MCNULTA announces through the Bloomington Leader that he is entered for the Gubernatorial race. He says: "As a matter of fact, I am now in the field, and intend to work for the nomination. I regret that Mr. Fifer has decided to contest the matter also, but he has a perfect right to do so, and only honorable means will be employed to win favors. He was an excellent soldier, and has performed good work for the the party. If the people prefer him I sincerely hope he will be successful. We have both lived here in McLean county nearly all our lives, and the Republican ranks are thoroughly familiar with our characters and careers."

CONDENSED TELEGRAMS.

M. Delourede has assumed the presidency of the French Patriotic League. The league now numbers 200,000 members.

A Cabinet meeting was held yesterday, at which all the members were present except Secretary Whitney who was detained in New York by illness.

The Red river is frozen solid from St. Vincent, Minn., to Pembina. The river has not been frozen over at this season for thirty years.

Advices received at Miles City, Mont., from the Tongue River agency of the Cheyennes, state that all the young bucks have left the agency, going off with the Crows.

People stood in line at the entrance of the Fifth Avenue Theater, New York, from eleven o'clock Monday night until Tuesday morning waiting for the sale of seats to begin for Mrs. Potter's appearance.

The French steamer Hindoostan, Captain Lot, which arrived at Marseilles from New York, took fire and was entirely burned. She had 3,000 tons of merchandise aboard, all of which was destroyed.

W. H. Reynolds, editor of a prohibition paper at Holly Springs, Mass., has disappeared. He was assaulted recently by two saloon keepers and it is thought that he has now been made away with by his enemies.

Prince Victor Napoleon has issued a manifesto in reply to the manifesto issued by the Count of Paris some time ago. He claims an appeal to the people and asserts that the Napoleons alone can give France a strong democratic government.

One of the severest storms ever known in Montana at this season is just over. There are four inches of snow on the ground at Billing, and the thermometer is fifteen degrees below zero.

Jas. C Flood, the bonanza millionaire, is reported to be at death's door. He has not, and probably never will, recover from the shock incident to the great wheat corner and the Nevada Bank troubles. He is a physical wreck.

The Paris Figaro states that the Czar visited Copenhagen with the view of taking decisive action in regard to Bulgarian affairs, and that he has formed an anti-German alliance between Russia, Belgium, Holland, Sweden and Denmark. Other powers are expected to join the alliance.

Civil-Service Commissioner Lyman, living with his family, has just returned to fused Ogden, says that he had read Mr. Saltiel's letter to the Illinois Association, and that in the main his views coincide with those of Mr. Oberly.

A slide of rock has occurred on the 180-foot level of the Iron Hill, near Deadwood, Dak., bringing down ore of the estimated value of $100,000. Assays are said to give the return of about $20,000 per ton, and it is thought that a large body exists which will reach that value.

The President pardoned Henry C. Kurkendall, convicted in Michigan of having counterfeit coin in his possession. He also commuted the sentence of Wm. S. Nature's Own True Laxative.

The delicious flavor and healthy properties of sound, ripe fruit are well known, and seeing the need of an agreeable and effective laxative, the California Fig Syrup Co. commenced a few years ago to manufacture a concentrated Syrup of Figs, which has given such general satisfaction that it is rapidly superseding the bitter drastic liver medicines and cathartics hitherto in use. If costive or bilious try it. For sale in 50 cents and $1.00 bottles by Dr. A. J. Stoner, Decatur, Ill.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—President Cleveland has issued the following:

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The goodness and the mercy of God which have followed the American people during all the days of the past year claim their grateful recognition and humble acknowledgment. By His omnipotent power He has protected us from war and pestilence, and from every National calamity; by His gracious favor the earth has yielded a generous return to the labor of the husbandman, and every path of honest toil has led to comfort and contentment; by His loving loving kindness the hearts of our people have been replenished with fraternal sentiment and patriotic endeavor, and by His unerring guidance we have been directed in the way of National prosperity. To the end that we may with one accord testify our gratitude for all these blessings, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday the twenty-fourth day of November next, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by all the people of the land. On that day let all secular work and employment be suspended; and let our people assemble in their accustomed places of worship, and with prayer and songs of praise give thanks to our Heavenly Father for all that he has done for us, while we humbly implore forgiveness of our sins and a continuance of His mercy. Let families and kindred be united on that day, and let their hearts, filled with kindly cheer and affectionate remembrances, be turned in thankfulness to the source of all their pleasures and the giver of all that makes the day glad and joyous And in the midst of our worship and our happiness let us remember the poor, the needy and the unfortunate, and by our gifts of charity and ready benevolence let us increase the number of those who with grateful hearts shall join in our thanksgiving.

In witness whereof I have set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 25th day of October, in the year of our Lord, 1887, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twelfth.

By the President: GROVER CLEVELAND.

T. F. BAYARD, Secretary of State.

After the Revolting Crows.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The War Department is informed by General Terry that General Ruger is upon the scene of the Crow Indian troubles with an adequate force, and is only awaiting the completion of arrangements by which he hopes to effect a peaceful capture of the revolting Indians.

Contract Awarded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The contract for furnishing new scales, beams, weights and other weighing apparatus and repairs of the same required in the customs service during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1888, has been awarded to Fairbanks & Co., of New York.

Dividend Declared.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The Comptroler of the Currency has declared a dividend of twenty-five per cent. for the benefit of creditors of the Fidelity National Bank upon claims to the amount of $2,886,569.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

Robert G. Hall Found Guilty of the Murder of Sophia E. Smith at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—The trial of Robert G. Hall for the murder of Sophia E. Smith, alias Lillian Rivers, was resumed before Judge Arnold yesterday morning. When the defense closed Monday night they reserved the right to call one more witness this morning. The proceedings began by the prosecution calling Dr. David P. Richardson as an additional witness. He said that he formerly had charge of the insane department of the Philadelphia hospital. He had been requested by Judge Wilson to make an examination of the prisoner. He had visited Hall in his cell on four different occasions, and as a result of these visits he said: "I considered that Hall was a very bright man, a man who could talk well on almost any subject that you would suggest. He was very courteous to me and on one occasion I said, 'I would to God you were insane,' then there would be some excuse for your crime.' He replied: 'Yes, that when the cave came up for trial he would like to be violently insane for forty-eight hours.' He talked well on all subjects, and I was satisfied from my examination that his mind was not affected from any disease.

John G. Ingman was then called for the defense. He said that he knew the defendant, and that they had worked together at house painting. Witness had noticed several little things about the prisoner, which led him to believe that the latter's mind was affected, and concluded by saying that he was always of the impression that Hall was insane.

In rebuttal Charles C. Smith, who had employed Hall and Ingman, was called by the commonwealth. The witness said that the prisoner had worked with him two weeks and two days. During that time he never saw any thing that indicated insanity on the part of the prisoner. On cross-examination the witness testified that he thought the prisoner was a man of excitable disposition, quick witted and sharp. Mr. Siner then began the summing up for the commonwealth, and was followed by Mr. Dubois on behalf of the prisoner. When Mr. Dubois had ended, the prisoner remarked: "that was beautiful. It was the finest argument I ever heard." The court then took recess, after which Judge Arnold charged the jury. The jury retired to deliberate and in a few moments returned with a verdict of murder in the first degree. A motion was immediately made for a new trial on technical grounds. Argument will be heard next Saturday.

Missionary Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—The first meeting of the Missionary council, provided for and appointed at the last general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, met here yesterday. There was a notable gathering of Bishops, clergymen and laymen. Bishop Williams of Connecticut, prelate of the church and president of the House of Bishops, opened the service with prayer. Bishop Whittaker of Philadelphia read the epistle. Bishop Bedell of Ohio read the gospel, and Bishop Tuttle of Mississippi delivered the sermon. Holy Communion was then administered by Bishop Williams, assisted by Bishops Whipple of Minnesota, Whittaker, Tuttle and Clarke of Rhode Island. The business session then began, Bishop Whipple presiding. Rev. Dr. Austice, of Western New York, was chosen secretary, and a committee to draft rules for the government of the council was appointed, consisting of Rev. Dr. Longford, Bishop Doane and Hon. Mr. Baldwin. After the committee had reported the rules, the council began consideration of questions submitted by members.

The Ex-Champions Sustain Their Tenth Defeat at the Hands of Detroit.

CHICAGO, Oct., 26.—The champions and ex-champions played the thirteenth game of their series in this city yesterday, the St. Louis Browns sustaining their tenth defeat at the hands of the Detroits. The weather was exceedingly cold and the attendance did not exceed four hundred people. The Detroits won the game in the first inning, when they made three runs on one good hit, two scratches and an error. King pitched a great game for the Browns, and had he been properly supported, would have succeeded in downing the world's champions. Boyle caught finely, better than he has previously done, and, moreover, led the batting, making three clean hits. Latham also got a couple of good hits, but was really responsible for the loss of the game by an inexcusable error.

The two clubs left on their special train, minus the dining-car, for St. Louis, at half-past eight last evening. They will arrive in St. Louis between eight and nine o'clock. The party is smaller than when it left St. Louis, several of the Detroiters having remained at home. The score of games now stands 10 to 4 in favor of Detroit, and to-day's game at St. Louis will wind it up. The Browns do not expect any extravagantly enthusiastic reception at home. They are thoroughly discouraged over the loss of the pennant, and every one of them shows it in his demeanor.

A Receiver Wanted.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—A petition asking for the appointment of a receiver of the estate of Albert E. Goodrich, late president of the El Plomo Mining Company, was filed in the Superior Court yesterday. The petitioner, Ezra W. Thayer, Jr., of Phœnix, Ariz., brings this suit for the benefit of himself and other creditors of the mining company. Through the transfer of a large quantity of shares in the company to Goodrich, he says, he is unable to collect a judgment, and thinks the property of the deceased Goodrich should be levied on. Goodrich was president of the Goodrich Transportation Company, and his estate is valued at $5,000,000.

Mr. Davis at Macon.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 26.—Yesterday opened in Macon with damp and drizzling weather. The event of the day, incident to the arrival of the Davis family, was a reception to Mrs. Davis at the fair grounds, where a vast multitude of ladies gathered to pay their respects. At night a reception on a grand scale was given in honor of Miss Winnie Davis by the Thalia Club, which was largely attended by the elite of the city and State. Governor Gordon and staff arrived during the day from Atlanta, and to-day Mr. Davis will review the old veterans from all parts of this and adjoining States. Fully 30,000 visitors are in the city.

The Stewart Estate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Mr. Henry Hilton, one of the defendants in the suit which Mrs. Sarah N. Smith, a niece of Mr. Stewart, has brought against the Stewart estate, filed his personal answer yesterday. It is a general denial of the charge of fraud and violation of trust. It recites that Mrs. Smith and her relative received several millions from Mrs. Stewart in her lifetime and $12,000,000 by her will, and that the disposition of the remainder of the estate was made according to Mr. Stewart's wishes expressed before his death.

May Lead to War Again.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Ex-Mayor Grace says that while it is true that the Peruvian Congress has refused to ratify the bond settlement plan in which he and his brother, M. F. Grace, are interested, yet he does not consider the matter finally disposed of. The action of the Congress was due to interference by Chili, and was resented by a large portion of the Peruvian people, who would call the government to account for submitting to Chilian dictation. The affair might lead to a renewal of hostilities between Peru and Chili.

Mr. Gould's Movements Uncertain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A United Press reporter called at Mr. Jay Gould's office yesterday with a view to learning something with regard to that gentleman's future movements. Mr. Gould was not in, but Mr. George Gould said that the Atalanta had been sent to some convenient point on the French coast to await the arrival of his father. The young man did not know, however, with any certainty, as to when his father would sail for Europe.

Monument to John C. Breckinridge.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 26.—Arrangements are being made for the unveiling of the John C. Breckinridge monument on November 16. The occasion will be observed by a grand civic and military parade. The oration will be delivered by Senator Jo S. C. Blackburn. The bronze statue is now here ready to be placed.

Steamer Sunk.

PADUCAH, Ky., Oct. 26.—The Paducah & Mount Vernon packet Rosedale sunk in the Ohio river at ten o'clock yesterday morning, seven miles this side of Golconda, Ill. Insured. The cargo of bran and shipstuff is a total loss.

FOR THE LAST ACT.

Preparations in Progress at Chicago For the Last Act in the Great Anarchist Tragedy.

The Second Regiment Illinois National Guard Notified to Be Prepared For a Week's Duty.

The Execution, If It Takes Place According to Programme, to Be Private Within the Meaning of the Law.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Preparations are already being silently made for the great Anti-Anarchist drama of November 11. Already orders have been given, it is said, to the members of the Second Illinois National Guard, that they will be required to be on duty for a full week, or perhaps longer, prior to November 11, at their armory, or wherever else their services may be required. The probability is that the First regiment will be called upon to do the same. It is understood, however, that neither of the regiments will be called from their respective armories unless in the case of absolute need. It is also stated on authority that the entire block on which the county jail and the Criminal Court building are located will be cordoned with police, and all the North Clark street buildings abutting on the jail will be guarded with police officers, and no one allowed to enter them until after the execution of the condemned men. In order to save the great family of curiosity seakers who are ambitious to see their fellow-men swing into eternity, it may be stated that the sheriff has already decided to limit the number of spectators to those that the law requires to be present, and to a very few representatives of the press.

The gloom which has marked the condemned men, with one exception, for several days past still continues to deepen. The exception is that of Parsons, who still indulges in his chronic flippant good spirits and laughs and jokes with those who call upon him. The others, however, make no longer any attempt to conceal their feelings or to blind themselves to the fate which threatens them. It is stated by certain persons who claim to have good reasons for what they say, that Governor Oglesby will grant the condemned men a brief respite, so that they will not be limited to a bare fortnight to prepare them selves for death.

On the morning of the day during which there shall be a probability of the United States Supreme Court's decision arriving in this city—probably Thursday morning—the guard upon the condemned will be doubled, or perhaps trebled, and the freedom which they have hitherto enjoyed will be materially curtailed. No one will be allowed to visit them at all. The latter precaution will be taken to avoid the possibility of any one furnishing the prisoners with poison or other means of suicide.

Quite a sensation was caused yesterday among the inmates of the woman's department of the jail by an official request that they help make the shrouds and caps to be worn at the execution of the condemned men. Some of the inmates were willing to do the work required and were even anxious to participate in the ghastly task, but others were strongly opposed to rendering any aid, and these formed so large a part of the inmates that it may be necessary to have the work done outside the jail. The material—white unbleached muslin—has already been purchased. Each shroud will be shaped like a bag, only with holes on both ends and gathered close at the top. The hoods will be half a yard in width and about the same in length, gathered together at the top, which will be about ten inches across. The material is cut into the necessary shape, and lacks nothing but the stitches that were asked today of the motley crowd of women malefactors confined in the same prison with the seven death-sentenced Anarchists.

Chicago Anarchists Arrested for Criminal Libel.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Max Adler, Edmund Deuss, Frank Beijfield and L. Strowrowski, editors and owners of the Anarchist organ, the Arbeiter Zeitung, were arrested yesterday on a charge of criminal libel, growing out of events connected with the bomb-throwing at the Haymarket. The complainant is Ernest Legner, a whilom friend of August Spies. Within the past fortnight the Arbeiter Zeitung has published charges that Legner, whom it is claimed the Anarchists expected to be an important witness for them in the trial before Judge Gary, had been hired by the police for $300 to go on a secret junket, after the fashion of the boodle informer, Nick Schneider, and that when the Anarchist trial came up Legner was not to be found. Legner, through his attorneys, takes strenuous exception to these charges, and has caused warrants to be issued for August Beiz and August Geffers, all of the Arbeiter Zeitung. All the persons arrested on Legner's warrants were released on bonds of $300 each for appearance November 4.

The Knights of Labor Secession.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—The first formal step by any Knights of Labor Assembly to join the secession from the order was taken last night in local assembly No. 1,307, of which Parsons, the Anarchist, is a leader. The assembly held a protracted meeting, and the sentiment developed was overwhelmingly in favor of rebellion and a bitter fight against Powderly. A vote severing the assembly from the knights was not actually taken, however, action being confined to appointing a committee to confer with the provisional committee, of which Joseph Buchanan is the ruling spirit. Just what course will be pursued has not been divulged, further than that it will be the most embarrassing possible to Powderly and his colleagues.

"As In a Looking-Glass."

NEW YORK, Oct 26.—Mrs. Langtry's performance of "As In a Looking-Glass," at the Fifth Avenue Theater, yesterday afternoon, for the benefit of the actors' fund, netted $1,205. The audience was composed mainly of members of the profession. Among these present were Mrs. James Brown Potter, Agnes Booth and Joseph Jefferson. Noted actors, including Bellew, Herbert Kelcey, Courtice Pounds and Osmond Tearle acted as ushers. Mrs. Langtry was heartily applauded.

The New York Printers' Strike.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The situation in the book and job printer's strike remains unchanged. The Ladies Protective Association will give, it is said, a series of entertainments at Fythiagorias Hall for the benefit of the strikers. Miss Ida Greeley, daughter of Horace Greeley, will open the first of the series, to be held to-night.

THE SUEZ CANAL CONVENTION.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—After a fair and careful discussion of the Anglo-French convention relating to the Suez canal, it is generally conceded that the treaty itself, together with its acceptance by both parties thereto, is an enormous triumph for Lord Salisbury, who personally conducted the negotiations, and will go a long way toward compensating for the government's shortcoming in Ireland and in the matter of local government, the neglect of parliament to reform which has caused considerable agitation. The Tory press are jubilant over the signing of the convention and a majority of the French newspapers are equally well pleased, though the gratification of the latter springs from entirely different grounds.

The Soliel and other Paris journals assert that while the neutrality of the canal is not only desirable, but absolutely necessary, the interest of the treaty and the good results expected from it can not be reached as long as Egypt is occupied by British troops. Neutral Egypt is quite as necessary as a neutral canal, and it is contended that the one must exist as a means of accomplishing the other beyond question.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A DYNAMITE CONSPIRATOR.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A man died suddenly to-day in South London, and a search of his apartments and his person disclosed the fact that the deceased was an American, and that he was a member of a dynamite conspiracy. The police have as yet been unable to arrest any of the conspirators, as no overt act has been committed by them. The inquest will be held to-morrow, when full disclosures will be made.

THE DEAD DYNAMITER.

The dynamiter who died at his lodgings in South London yesterday has been ascertained to have been a dynamiter of the old school, whose methods, as shown by the evidence he left behind him, were of the kind that no dynamiter of the present day employed. The chief witnesses at the inquest will be the police, but although their information concerning the deceased is full and accurate, their testimony will merely rehearse the old, old story. Not a single new scheme is suggested by the belongings and recent history of the dead man, and it is ascertained by the Scotland Yard authorities that whatever he might have attempted to do would have been frustrated at the outset, so thoroughly conversant are they with the mode of procedure—adhering to fixed rules—pursued by dynamiters of this class. The authorities at Scotland Yard had almost completed the evidence against the man necessary to enable them to arrest him, when he suddenly died. The circumstances of the death were so suspicious that the detectives ordered the coroner to hold an inquest, which promises some sensational revelations. It has transpired that the practice of patroling the river in front of the palace at Westminster (the House of Commons), which was abandoned some time ago, was recently resumed by the police, and still continues.

BEATRICE'S BABIES.

The fecundity of the Princess Beatrice is the general topic of comment, and suggests the possibility of a strenuous opposition on the part of the Radicals at the next session of Parliament to further grants to members of the reigning family. There is nothing new in this, to be sure, but as it is only eleven months since Beatrice gladdened the heart of her mother by ushering into this world her first pensioner upon the bounty of the people of England, the time seems to have arrived when it is necessary to formulate stipulations limiting the frequency and number of children to be provided for, or curtailing the usual allowance for such purposes.

A BLACKLAILER FOILED.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—A German named Hertz, formerly a butler to Mrs. John W. On the trial Hertz admitted his guilt, and pleaded poverty in extenuation.

A Jolly Good Time.

One who was there furnishes the following report of a successful surprise party that occurred last night: "It was quietly arranged by one of the Leforgee family that they would surprise Aunt Martha, the eldest sister. Aunt Martha was invited to her sister Mary's to tea, and in the mean times all the family met at the home of Dr. W. J. Chenoweth, and in a handy way took possession of Auntie's home, when the good old lady returned to her home to find a blazing fire in the parlor grate and all ready to welcome her from gray heads to romping children. It would be useless to try to tell how much we enjoyed ourselves, and to add to the pleasure Uncle Jess absented himself from the company for a little while, not to make a sale in real-estate, but to make a purchase. When his good old face appeared at the door, his arms burdened with baskets of choice apples and grapes—well, part of the fruit disappeared, but we were left to remember an evening so happily spent, and with a few grave advices from Uncle Ayres, we bade Aunt Martha good night and all went quietly home saying I was glad I there."

THE Milwaukee Harvester Company, informs us that the firm has decided to abolish the branch houses at Peoria and Danville, and consolidate their business in Decatur, by opening a large warehouse. Mr. Butts has selected Jesse Fisher as the local agent. The Milwaukee firm will do a business of $50,000 a year here, and will also make Decatur the distributing point for their excellent machines.

THERE is grief in the house of Maffit. Muggins is dead. Everybody knows Muggins, and everybody will mourn with Robbie in the loss of his favorite saddle horse. Most of all, poor Muggins was not allowed to live out his days like the honest old servant that he was, but met death at the hands of some miscreant, who shot him in the pasture. May he (Muggins) rest in peace—may the tortures of the condemned be visited upon the sinful wretch who could find it in his heart to murder such a faithful and trusty old servant.

A Raving Maniac.

Rev. J. H. Young, pastor of the Westfield and Casey Methodist churches in Mattoon district, under Elder J. T. Orr, while conducting the Sunday school service Sunday morning at Westfield, suddenly began to use shrieking, profane and abusive language toward the congregation, and threatened some with bodily injury. He was secured and taken to jail. He is now a raving maniac, driven insane by religious excitement. He sings gospel hymns almost constantly. Rev. Young was in Decatur during the session of the Illinois Conference in September. His mind seemed well balanced at that time.

While with the Decatur party near Waucedah, B. W. Campbell, of Cincinnati, one of the party, shot and killed a running deer at a distance of 195 yards, or 585 feet. This is considered one of the longest shots on record. A full statement is to be made out, with affidavits attached, for publication in one of the sporting journals.

Hiram Brown 90 Years Old.

Many of the older people of the community will remember Hiram Brown, father of MRS. E. O. Smith, of San Jose, Cal. He formerly resided in Decatur and for a while had the management of the opera house. The 90th birthday of this venerable citizen was celebrated at Peoria on Monday evening in the presence of 75 children and friends, the festivities taking place beneath the roof of Hiram's son, Silas Brown, the well-known distiller. Mr. Brown is a hale, hearty man, and afflicted with no physical infirmity, except that he is somewhat hard of hearing. Mr. Brown was born in Cheshire, Mass., and was a school fellow of William Cullen Bryant, of Cummington, Mass., in 1845. He was a deacon in the congregational church at Cummington, and was stoned in coming from the church because he dared to avow anti-slavery sentiments. Since then he has been a free-thinker. He traveled with William Lloyd Garrison when that strong anti-slavery advocate was making speeches. He came to Elmwood, Peoria county, twenty years ago, and has resided there ever since. His descendents reach to the fourth generation.

JUDGE HUGHES has sent a lot of misdemeanor cases from the circuit to the county court. They are too unimportant to take up the valuable time of the circuit court, where the expense is not inconsiderable. He did wisely in thus relieving the county of extra expense.

THE mammoth collar in Race's window is not, as has been erroneously supposed by many, one of Mr. Cleveland's. The collar worn by the great encyclopedist is not so high as the one in question, which would entirely hide the pecan shaped head of his excellency. The collar at Race's would probably go around Mr. Cleveland's neck, but it is entirely too high

Virginius To-Night.

The famous artists, Mr. James and Miss Wainwright, will appear to-night in Virginius. There will be a large audience present with many in attendance from a distance.

Mr. James is a scholar, a man of rare intelligence, has been thoroughly schooled in the most legitimate ranks of the stage, and is therefore, eminently qualified to make his mark in the head he has just selected. His interpretation of the character of Virginius, the Roman father, is distinguishable at once for its superior merit. He imparts to the character dignity, force and mental vigor, as well as well defined pathos. His voice is rich, sympathetic, flexible and musical. All these qualities, coupled with true earnestness, enable Mr. James to give an exceptionally fine representation of the character, and he has certainly made an almost complete success of the part. Miss Wainwright makes a lovable and charming Virginia.—Chicago Journal

The Virginius of Mr. James was a veritable triumph which artistically has scarcely been surpassed. The role was superbly filled in voice, figure and action, and the rendition not only held the audience deeply interested from beginning to end, but at times electrified it with splendid bursts of intensity and power. Mr. James's Virginius is great. Miss Wainwright's Virginia is a charming and strong piece of work and the performance of these two in the play makes the performance full of interest.—St. Louis Republican

Close Call for Lou Hart.

Last evening Lou Hart, the well-known Wabash engineer had a close call from fatal injuries while running a special train from Decatur to St. Louis. It was a made-up train of two coaches, that came in late from the east, the delay being caused by a little accident at Philo. Lou was driving his engine rapidly between Boody and Blue Mound, when the driving rod on the right side of the engine broke and swung around with terrific force, the heavy iron bar crashing through the floor of the cab and grazing Lou on the right side from his knee to his head, making a painful though not fatal wound. Fortunately the train was not wrecked. Lou was brought back to Decatur on a freight train, and was met at the depot by friends who saw that he got home safely. Dr. J. Brown attended him.

LOCAL dealers say it is difficult to fill orders for coal, owing to the increased demand. A famine exists at Springfield and Bloomington on account of the strike.

COMMENCING November 1st, 1887, the I. C. R. R. will sell 2,000 mile tickets at $40.00. These tickets will be limited to one year from date of issue. Unused portions will be redeemed after deducting 2 cents per mile for the portion used.

The special committee of the board of supervisors appointed to examine the court house have decided to recommend in their report to the next meeting of the Board of Supervisors that the question of building the court house be submitted to a vote of the people in November, 1888. The voters will unquestionably vote in favor of the proposition. For the reasons stated in last evening's issue, this course is necessary. Owing to the action of the state board in cutting down the equalized valuation of taxable property in Macon county the board cannot raise more than $12,000 to $15,000 each year to set apart for the court house. Had there been no reduction $25,000 to $30,000 could have been raised inside each year.

DID THEY MAKE A MISTAKE?

Since the above was written the REPUBLICAN reporter has examined the equalized returns on the books in charge of Clerk Hardy, and it appears that the special committee has made an error in the figures. The equalized tax valuation for 1886 was $9,000,845; for 1887, the present year, it is $9,014,044, which is $13,799 in excess of 1886, instead of a reduction, and by the 75 cents limit the county could realize on the 1887 valuation a total of nearly $68,000. It is figured by the committee that it will require about $40,000 a year for county purposes On this basis, each year the county could have left at least $25,000 from taxes to put into the court house fund. The committe may not have to recommend that the court house question shall be submitted to a vote of the people.

A Fox Hunt.

It is stated that a grand fox hunt will be given south-east of Macon to-morrow, starting from James Freeman's grove, a place well-known to all. For some time past the farmers have been bothered by these animals to such an extent that that they are compelled to take steps to destroy them. It will be a hunt full of interest to sporting men. No cur dogs or fire arms will be allowed, but the hunt will be made with good blooded hounds. Preparations will be made to continue it three days. Extensive preparations are being made to accommodate the ladies who will attend.

To-morrow night the fairy spectacle, "Zozo, the Magic Queen," will be produced at the opera house with a brilliant promise of scenic and mechanical effects, elegant costumes and choice music. There is no ballet, but a full chorus of ladies selected especially for their vocal talent, and Mdlle. Pauline Montegriffo, a prima donna soprano who has sung in companies with Patti and Kellogg, has the title role. Miss Toma Hanlon, a favorite vocalist, has another principal character. The leading comedian is Geo. H. Adams, whose "Humpty Dumpty" was one of the very best and most favorably known to the public. The aim of the management has been to retain and improve upon the most attractive features of spectacular entertainment without their objectionable points. The costumes are all new.

Nearing the End—Judge Smith will be Here Nov. 5th.

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 26.

Judge Hughes slashed away at the People's docket yesterday, and sent a big batch of cases to Judge Nelson in the county court to dispose of at his leisure. In all probability court will adjourn to-morrow until Saturday, November 5th, at 10 a. m., when Judge Smith will be on the bench for the day to hear motions, approve reports of commissioners and give his decision in the Foster demurrer case. John A. Brown, the master in chancery, was in telephone connection with Judge Smith this morning, when the arrangement for the adjournment to November 5th was effected.

A Probable Ticket War.

It is stated by the Chicago Tribune that there is every indication that a rupture between the Wabash and Alton will take place before many days which will result in a war on passenger rates between Chicago and St. Louis. Some time ago an agreement was entered into between the Wabash and the other roads between Chicago and St. Louis for the maintenance of uniform rates, but it has not been well maintained, and ever since its adoption the Alton and Wabash have been preferring charges against each other for violations of the same. A short time ago the Wabash charged the Alton with violation of the agreement by carrying the Hanlons' Fantasma company in a special train at special rates, contrary to the agreement. The arbitrators, Chairman Daniels, of the Central Traffic Association, and Abbott, of the Western States Passenger Association, who had the matter under investigation, have found that the action of the Alton was in violation of the agreement, and no good reason could be assigned for it. As the agreement does not provide penalties, the Wabash does not think the decision alone is any balm for its wounded feelings, and desires better satisfaction. It is stated that the Wabash contemplates giving notice of withdrawal from the agreement at once.

THE LEGEND OF THE BELL.

'Tis noon within the tower of the bell,
The mallet strikes its graven metal side,
And out upon the air the deep tones swell,
Then break and die in echoes far and wide,
And after each loud, clanging, brazen tone
Has rolled from dome above to floor below,
There clearly sounds a sobbing, golden moan,
Which ends in silver whispers faint and low.
And thus it rings through all the changing days,
And there is not a child who can not tell
In all the winding Chinese city ways,
This quaint old legend of the wondrous bell.

Five hundred years ago the august Ming
Did order cast a bell of strongest mold,
That through the many-colored streets should ring,
And formed of iron, silver, brass and gold.
His worthy steward called each bellsmith there;
The molds were formed, the metals fused with skill,
The roaring fires were built and watched with care,
And workers wrought with strong and ready will.

But when the bell was cast 'twas all in vain.
The gold had scorned the silver ore and brass.
The molders wrought their weary task again,
And once again it proved a shapeless mass.

And then this direful message came one day:
"Thou hast betrayed the trust I placed in thee.
Take heed from this and hasten to obey."
The steward had one daughter fair to see,
And good was she and true, as well as fair;
And when the message came so full of dread,
She quietly sold her jewels rich and rare,
And sought a seer, who searched his books and said:

"A maiden's form must with the ores unite,
Ere silver, gold and brass shall blend in one."
The maid went home, her heart grown cold with fright,
And secret kept what she had heard and done.

At last the third and fatal casting came.
The lady with her maid stood by the door;
They saw the workmen feed the furnace flame,
And watched the slowly whitening lake of ore,
But ere the master gave the sign to cast,
"For thee, my father, see!" the maiden cried,
In birdlike notes above the roaring blast,
Then sank beneath the glowing metal tide.
They bore the father home with grief distraught
While still the maid before the furnace stood,
And held the tiny golden shoe she caught.
As fell the mistress 'neath the molten flood.

And yet in spite of all they cast the bell,
Although they feared their work must useless prove;
But, strange to say, they found no trace to tell
Of her who gave her life with childlike love.
And when the bell was cold the molders found
It fair and perfect, both in tint and form,
And far above all other bells in sound,
With tone like pealings from a summer storm,
And when each swelling tone has died away,
And sharply sweet the silver note rings through,
'Tis then the Chinese mothers softly say;
"The maid is calling, crying for her shoe."

PARIS PICKPOCKETS.

Interesting Statements of an Ex-Chief of Detectives.

The Systematic Training Necessary to a Successful Career of Thieving—Some of the Most Ingenious Ruses Practiced.

The most interesting book that has recently appeared in Paris is "Un Joli Monde," written by M. Macé. M. Macé for many years and until eighteen months ago was the chief of the Paris detective police. His book is devoted to the seamy side of Parisian life, that would naturally fall under the observation of a man in that place. Perhaps one of the most interesting chapters is that entitled "Pickpockets and Pickpocketes," from which the Times translates the following:

"Apropos of the pickpockets, there are professors that make a business of teaching that kind of robbery. Special schools exist where boys that ought to be at play with their hoops and tops are initiated into all the secrets of this art. After a few lessons their 'professors' require them to undergo practical examinations on a manikin. This manikin, dressed like a man and covered with little bells, is suspended from the ceiling by a wire so that at the least contact the bells are set to jingling. A boy is considered ready to work a crowd when, time and again, he can take a purse or pocket-book from the pocket of the manikin without ringing a single bell.

"The true pickpocket is not a vulgar rascal, and you will be astonished to learn that many of them have an established social position. Some of them are the keepers of cafes, jewelers, tobacconists, and all of them have the appearance of honest tradesmen and respectable people. The English pickpocket is the best known—he is seen everywhere—but he is not the most clever. He has in some way acquired a reputation that he does not merit. He is stiff, constrained in his movements, and exhibits in his calling a good deal of the national phlegm. He is an indefatigable walker, and the police agents who follow him up to catch him in the act return in a state of exhaustion. Sly as a serpent, he never yields to any dangerous temptation. He never remains in one crowd longer than ten minutes, and generally contents himself with one victim at a place. He is most at home at the races, but even there never forgets the rules of prudence that guide him elsewhere. The fever of betting renders the crowd careless. Bets are made, and the horses start, followed by a thousand anxious eyes. Around they go. Now they draw near the wire. The crowd bursts into an uproar, an instant later the air is filled with the mingled cries of triumph for the winners and the sullen roar of disappointment of the losers. The only man in the crowd who escapes the general excitement is the pickpocket. His face is calm, his head is cool, and his body, almost glued to that of his victim's, is motionless. His hands alone are busy, and in a brief space he has gathered in an abundant harvest. While he is thus engaged his accomplices surround him, each having a particular role assigned to him in advance. When a rich betting man makes his way to a bookmaker, some of these accomplices crowd in before him while others push him forward from behind. He is jostled and elbowed by these rogues, whom he takes to be betting men like himself, and when he emerges from the crowd he has left his pocket-book in the hands of the operator, who has not failed to take advantage of his opportunities. The booty passes from hand to hand to the last accomplice, who is generally the cashier of the band. The trick taken, the pickpockets separate without stopping to see what they have got, and begin another operation.

"Pickpockets have sources of information more secret and sure than those of the municipal police. Nothing escapes them, and it is a common thing for pickpockets in London and New York to notify confederates in Paris of the arrival of good subjects for the exercise of their art. As a general thing, all the pickpockets of the north—the English, Russians, Poles, and Germans—are cold, methodical, audacious, and persistent. They rarely abandon the victim they have determined to despoil. The German is an excellent tireur a l'esbrouffe, a very old kind of robbery, consisting in violently running against a person and profiting from his confusion by picking his pockets. He seldom frequents the races or crowded stores, but may be seen at the banks, where he watches persons that draw money and sees into which pocket they put it. The Germans also excel in the vol au radin, which consists in profiting from the momentary inattention of a cashier to make off with his money.

"The Italian pickpocket knows his extreme cleverness. He is conscious of his superiority, and he laughs at every European police force. He boldly repeats his robberies at the same locality, although aware that complaints have awakened the attention of the police. Full of confidence in his art, and enjoying his triumphs, he ends, however, by falling into their hands. If he had the prudence of the English pickpocket he could defy all detectives of the universe. He is the artist of pickpockets, but, yielding to his southern ardor, he is caught by his obstinate presence in the same crowd. He never abandons a favorite place until he has stolen all that he can possibly steal. In an international reunion of pickpockets he would be unanimously chosen president. When he has thrown his eye on a pocket, his address defies all competition. By a movement so natural that it escapes notice he feels of a pocket, weighs a purse, and appropriates it with the greatest dexterity. When engaged at his work he often purposely excites the attention of his victim by a slight and apparently accidental touch, which permits him to present his excuses in a most amiable and gracious manner. In point of dexterity the Spaniard is his rival. He operates unostentatiously, with suppleness and lightness of hand, but his movements are not stamped with that charming grace the secret of which the Italian alone possesses.

"The pickpocket never wears a glove on his right hand, and to conceal his movements he frequently carries a light overcoat on his left arm. In winter an overcoat on the arm would excite suspicion, and hence he carries then a large handkerchief, which he pretends to unfold to put around his neck. At churches, balls, cafes, theaters, the hat takes the place of the overcoat and handkerchief. In the slang of these malefactors, he who takes the purse is called the main (hand). The aids are called nonnes. They are the pupils, the accomplices. They must place themselves between le main and the crowd for the further security of the former. It is their business to look out for the detectives and to dispose of the victim in the way most convenient for le main—whether by elbowing and jostling him more or less vigorously or by attracting his attention from the operator. The latter, in order to conceal his right hand, raises his left arm, on which rests his overcoat, so that the overcoat covers the pocket that he intends to explore. What precautions, what delicacy and lightness of touch he must employ, to come off successfully! Two fingers only are introduced into the pocket. Lightly they raise the pocket-book, which for an instant is held suspended so that its owner shall not feel the sudden lightening of his pocket. At this moment the nonne, who is behind, pushes the victim slightly, when the latter, turning about, ceases to see and to feel what is going on. If the sum to be stolen is large, the pickpocket often maneuvers a long time with his victim. He quits him, finds him again, and never abandons him until he has got his money, unless, his eagerness overcoming his ordinary prudence, he is detected. In this case the nonnes come to his aid and endeavor to get him off before the arrival of the police, in which effort they usually succeed. An experienced detective is not satisfied with arresting the main; he wants the accomplices. This is why the main passes the stolen articles to the first nonne, who passes them to the second, and so on to the last of the band. This action is doubly advantageous to the main. Surprised by his victim, he has nothing on him, and that permits him to protest his innocence with vehement indignation. If the main is arrested by an inexperienced agent of police, his protestations are usually successful, for nothing compromising is found on his person, and the agent is afraid of making a mistake."

"How many robberies of this kind are committed in Paris daily?"

"Four or five hundred. At least two-thirds of them go unpunished. There are pickpockets everywhere. A couple of weeks ago, at the wedding of the niece of the Minister of the Interior, a rascal in full dress and with the appearance of a gentleman picked a dozen pockets. By the barest accident he was arrested. Two detectives that happened to be passing saw him throw something into a cellar window. A pocket-book struck one of the bars of the window and bounded back upon the pavement. The fellow was arrested and taken to the station, where over 12,000 francs were found upon his person. In the cellar, which had not been used for a long time, were found more than 150 pocket-books.

"The ruses these rascals often employ are exceedingly shrewd. An old pickpocket, with whom I have had some dealings, told me a story, not long ago, about a magistrate in the provinces who thought himself altogether too smart for pickpockets. 'You need,' he said, 'to take only a few very simple precautions to baffle them completely. I always put my pocket-book into a double pocket that my wife has made between my vest and my shirt. With my overcoat buttoned from top to bottom over this secret pocket, I think the pickpockets would have to be pretty cunning to steal my money.' He went to the fair and defied every unknown passer-by in whom he thought he recognized the famous pickpockets of whom he had talked so much. As an extra precaution he held his hands carefully crossed over his breast—a certain sign for the pickpocket that that was where his money was secured. This is the way he was despoiled of it: A long, thin lamp-wick was dextrously put down his back and lighted at an end left above his coat collar. The mains and nonnes awaited results. When the fire reached his neck he yelled and hopped about like a madman, and the mains kindly rushed to his assistance. They found it necessary, of course, to strip off his coat, and it hardly need be told that his money was soon in their possession.

"The imagination of pickpockets is fertile in ingenious stratagems. They smell out, as it were, the good tricks to take, and like to operate on a large scale. When a big robbery has been planned, and the robbers are sure of a big stake, every means is put in use to obtain it. Their intelligence always gives birth to the shrewdest combinations. Not long ago a wealthy contractor drew sixty-five thousand francs from a bank, put it into a small handsatchel, and got into a carriage to be driven to the Hotel de Ville. The carriage had not gone three hundred feet before the money was stolen. The thing seemed inexplicable, but it had been easy enough for the robbers. The carriage had scarcely left the bank when several persons rushed into the street and picked up a man who was screaming as if frightfully injured. It was supposed that he had been run over by an omnibus which had just gone by at a rapid pace. In appearance he seemed seriously wounded. In reality he was not hurt at all, and just here was the mystery of the robbery. The clever thieves had invented this scheme to attract attention, and thanks to its success an accomplice of the pretended wounded man had stolen the satchel from the carriage while the owner was leaning out of the window to see what had happened."

"In this class of pickpockets you have designated only men; but among the women you must have found curious types?"

"Not many. You see them at the railroad stations, at the boat landings, at the theaters, on the promenades, in the museums, and in the large stores. They attack only women. They are intelligent, shrewd and audacious. Germany sends us the greatest number of female pickpockets, but they are not the most adroit. The English women have carried this kind of robbery almost to the height of an art. Maneuvering from choice with the left hand, they always keep the right hand gloved. Spanish women are easily recognized. Small, sprightly, dark skinned, they slip into the crowds with great vivacity. If they are warned that a detective is near, they turn to him and try to engage him in conversation. The French women are skillful, but too much occupied with the practical results of robbery to succeed. They are always in a hurry to ascertain the contents of their stolen purses, and this often leads to their capture.

The women are constantly inventing new tricks in the art of stealing. In a large store, the other day, a woman was detected who carried a baby of eighteen or twenty months old on her left arm, with its legs and feet hanging down in such a way as to conceal her work with her right hand. At the opportune moment she lightly tickled the child's legs with her left hand while with her right she rummaged in the pockets of the lady customers. If the person whose pocket she was picking felt a touch and turned upon her, she gave the baby a few taps, saying: "Keep your feet still; you will soil madame's dress," which was sufficient to avert all suspicion. A new kind of pickpocket was lately discovered. It was a boy, hardly ten years old, captured at an omnibus station. With his hands in his overcoat pockets he despoiled victim after victim, and if any of them were inclined to suspect him they were reassured by his inoffensive attitude. As for pockets, the overcoat had only the exterior openings, and the boy could thrust his hands among the crowd without taking them out of what appeared to be his pockets."
—Chicago Times.

—"What does a diploma mean?" is the heading of an article in an exchange. It means that the boy has bled his fathers's pocket-book just as long as the old man will stand it. Sometimes it means a good deal more.
—Bismarck Tribune.
